Student Senate backs protest of dorm hours

By Randy Thomas
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Senate voted Wednesday night to fully support the East Campus Executive Council and any form of "civil disobedience" it might decide to take if SIU President David R. Derge does not support by May 11, their proposal for self-determination of dormitory hours and visitation.

Buzz Talbot, Brush Towers senator, told the body that dorm residents have waited long enough for a decision from the administration.

"If Derge stalls, delays or says no, the council has decided there is no other choice than to move outside the normal channels and express their desires," he said.

Talbot said a peaceful mass demonstration has been planned for May 11 to show just how much the dorm residents support the self-determination proposal. He said marshals have been appointed and the SIU Security Office has been notified to insure that things do not get out of hand. He also said the administration has been informed of the protest.

Although Talbot did not give specific details of the demonstration plans, the senators voiced unanimous approval. Copies of the resolution will be sent to Derge, George Mace, assistant to the president for student affairs and Sam Rinella, SIU housing director.

In other action, the senators voted to support the residents of University Trailer Court in their attempt to keep the court from being closed. They also voted to support a May 6 anti-war rally.

The senate voted in favor of a resolution calling for the athletic department to recognize wheelchair basketball as an official intercollegiate sport with full financial support. Jim Peters, vice president of the student body said he will personally introduce the bill to the University Senate for consideration.

The sight of silence

Peg Stauber, co-clerk of the Carbondale Friends Meeting (Quakers), said she was pleased with the turnout of 40 students and citizens at the peace vigil sponsored by her organization Wednesday. A petition calling for an end to bombing and complete withdrawal from Southeast Asia was signed by 30 participants. The petition will be sent to Sen. Charles Percy, Sen. Adlai Stevenson and Rep. ## Investigation of health fee proposal ordered

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Student Health Consumer Council (SHCC) Wednesday called for an investigation into the possibility of a reallocation of student fees.

The SHCC discussed the proposal as a means of decreasing the cost to students of the proposed comprehensive health service.

Gary Dickerson, SHCC chairman, said the group is not endorsing a proposal made by Donald DuBois, consultant to the comprehensive health service.

But rather, they are conceding that the $25 per quarter fee may be necessary for adequate health care.

DuBois' proposal outlined the benefits of the comprehensive health service. He also estimated that a $75 fee per year would have to be mandatory to support it.

Under DuBois' proposal there would be up to 30 days of hospitalization per illness, with a 90 day interlude between hospital stays. This includes daily room service and ancillary services as ordered by the attending physicians of the health service.

The health service infirmary care will be increased from 10 to 15 free days. All prescriptions will be sold at a flat rate of $1.50. Immunizations may cost $1 each. However, Mary Walker, director of Health Care Projects, said some students have pointed out that presently immunizations are free and thus the $1 fee may be withdrawn.

Specialist physician care will also be provided including such things as psychiatry, anesthesiology, surgery, internal medicine, neurology, ophthalmology, orthopedics, plastic surgery and urology. However, all these things can only be received free of charge if a health service doctor refers the student to the individual specialist.

Other benefits include free x-rays when ordered by the attending physician of the Health Service, vision care, maternity care, emergency room care—which may be expanded later, and free ambulance services provided at the direction of the student's physician.

Dickerson cited several areas in the present fee structure which the SHCC believes could be reworked.

He said the cost of the —soon to be constructed—recreation building will be realized in 13 months, after which the Social Welfare and Recreational Fee (SWARF) could be discontinued.

The group also recommended that the athletic fee be cut. "Since McAndrew Stadium is slated for renovation, we see no need for a new stadium to be built. We feel that proper health care should have a higher priority than a new stadium," Dickerson said.

The SHCC also recommended that a doctor be placed in the emergency room at all times and that this be included in the benefits of the comprehensive health service.

The SHCC will present its proposal to Student Senate, the Health Advisory Board and the President's Office.

Convocation program in jeopardy

By Sue Millen
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

"The situation is getting so bad at Convocation, that we may have to do away with the program," Paul Hibbs, coordinator of special programs, began.

Gus Bode

The situation Hibbs was speaking about is raucous behavior at Convocation. Last Thursday things came to a boiling point.

Pat Patterson, Miss Indiana, was speaking on "How to Change the System from Within." Throughout her speech, members of the audience could be heard talking and heckling.

At the conclusion of the show Randy Daniels, senior in radio and television and host for the Pat Patterson Convocation, scolded the audience for what he called "the most appalling conduct he had ever seen."

In an interview later, Daniels said he was embarrassed for the speaker.

"I've been the emcee for several convocations at other universities and I've never seen the audiences the way they do here," he said.

Daniels has hosted convocations at the University of Wisconsin, Marquette University, University of Illinois, Northwestern University and Notre Dame.

"As an audience, SIU students seem to be somewhere between the potty training and bed wetting stages," he said.

Daniels explained that he thought the purpose of Convocation was to enlighten and offer events students might not otherwise have an opportunity to experience.

"I think student conduct at Convocation is childlike and immature. They don't seem to have any common decency or consideration for others," he commented.

Hibbs said he thought the noisy behavior problem is not limited to Convocation.

"I think modern audiences are different than they used to be 20 years ago—television has had its effect on them," he said.

He explained that audiences no longer have to go out to get their entertainment, that television provides them with things that audiences used to have to seek out.

Regardless of whether the audience has heard the material before, they still should respect the performer, Hibbs said. "If we don't learn respect for the individual and open our minds to different ideas in our universities—then we really haven't learned anything at all," he said emphatically.

"What do I say," Hibbs continued rhetorically, "to the performers? Do I tell them that our students are all a bunch of goons? Do I tell them they are adolescents? Do I tell them that our students' education has yet to teach

Gus says if the new fees are approved, the first new Health Service patients will be those who paid until it hurt.

City of Carbondale trades autos to obtain special police options

By Tim Bruder
Student Writer

"The city of Carbondale will be trading nine used Chevrolets to Smith Dodge for 10 power-packed Dodge Polaras to be used by the Carbondale police department," Jerry Maxwell, city personnel and purchasing director, said in an interview last week.

"This is the first time that Smith
Dodge has won the competition bid for the police cars and did it with the low bid of $22,131.30," Maxwell said.

"This is also the first time the entire police staff will be furnished with police cars that have the specially equipped police package.
Before only the chief's car and one of the detectives had the special package unit," Maxwell said.

Maxwell said, "The bidding last time came at an improper time and there was a mixup in the order. The cars we received were ordinary cars and we had to accept them."

"In purchasing police cars we order full body or intermediate four-door sedans. This time the full body was only $150 more than the intermediate, so we got them," Maxwell said.

"A police special is putting heavy duty extra's wherever possible. In this year's model, we want to make sure we receive factory air conditioning, heavy duty shocks, brakes-transmission and a heavy duty bench front seat. These are the things we have had the most trouble with," Maxwell said.

"This year's Polaras will be equipped with a heavy duty engine with overhead valve V-8, not less than 165 horsepower and a two barrel carburetor."

"The new cars will be equipped with special tubeless tires and a 122 inch wheel base. Another first on the police car will be rear window defrosters," Maxwell said.

The police department will be trading in nine Chevys for the Polaras. Included in these will be five 1971's, two 1970's, one 1968 and one 1967.

Maxwell said, "Without any question the new cars will be better because we had more time and more people investigating the matter. We had our order in a month in advance this time."

Advocates of air supremacy thinking twice in S. Vietnam

By Fred S. Hoffman
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam's invasion gains in the face of total allied air superiority are raising new doubts here about the effectiveness of air power.

It has long been an article of faith among air power boosters that the adversary who controls the air over the battlefield will pretty well determine the course of the ground battle.

But it hasn't worked that way in the current North Vietnamese offensive, particularly in the area below Vietnam's demilitarized zone where the enemy has penetrated more than 30 miles into South Vietnam.

Both military officers and civilian defense officials are expressing concern privately and there are reports that key members of the Armed Services Committees of Congress are beginning to ask critical questions.

Some Air Force officers, while agreeing there is reason to question, argue that the issue still is in doubt and that over the long haul air power will do its job against the North Vietnamese by attrition of the enemy's heavy weapons and supplies, as well as killing his troops.

For quite some time, critics have questioned whether U.S. bombing of the Ho Chi Minh trail was really knocking out a big part of the enemy's supplies being trucked through southern Laos.

The ability of the North Vietnamese in the area below Vietnam's demilitarized zone to mount heavy bombardment of objectives like An Loc near Saigon and to bring 40-ton tanks that far south tends to support the critics' skepticism.

But perhaps the biggest source of dismay to advocates of air power has been the apparent inability of U.S. Air Force, Navy, Marine and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers and bombers to stem North Vietnam's invasion across the DMZ—a conventional attack through relatively open country with tanks, self-propelled and towed artillery, supply trucks and other heavy equipment.

U.S. and South Vietnamese strike planes have flown hundreds of sorties a day against North Vietnamese ground troops which are totally without air cover, though the enemy has brought substantial anti-aircraft artillery into play.

"I can't understand it," said one Air Force general with a long record of air combat in three wars. "Tanks are not supposed to survive against the kind of attack we use, with rockets and forward air controllers to spot targets and direct the strikes."

Another Air Force general, cautioning against immediate judgments on the effectiveness of air power, said the answers may come only "after the battle has reached its decisive phase."

He believes that phase may be some time off in future days or weeks.

"Air power cannot hold ground, it cannot move in and capture ground. All it can do is wear away the enemy's supplies, limit his mobility and affect his morale," he said.

"It takes time to do that, especially in a situation where the enemy has been able to gather supplies and troops for quite some time in a sanctuary above the DMZ."

Head of Black Council to accept new position

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

During a meeting of the Black Faculty and Staff Council Wednesday, Gossie H. Hudson, of the History Department, resigned his seat as chairman of the council and turned it over to Malvin E. Moore, professor of Educational Administration and Foundation.

"I've had a wonderful time," Hudson said, "and I'm going to turn over all of the records to the secretary to give to Dr. Moore."

Hudson is leaving SIU to take a position as dean of the history department at Lincoln University in Jefferson City, Mo.

He said that now that a University vice presidency, originally offered to George Taliaferro, former administrator at Morgan State College, is unfilled, "There is an implied commitment on the part of the University to fill that spot with a black person."

He recommended that the council call a meeting "with President Derge immediately and make your position known. We must have some input into who is chosen."

He also said that SIU does not have "10 per cent blacks on campus," contrary to some reports. "There are fewer than 1,000 black students on this campus," he said.

Hudson read letters sent to President Derge by the council requesting consideration of "inadequate staffing of Black American Studies" and other problems related to blacks.

He also expressed admiration for the Black Affairs Council concept. The Black Affairs Council is comprised of 18 black organizations at SIU coming together to form an umbrella group to more effectively deal with black problems.

"This moves toward unity," Hudson said, "and I like that."

The new chairman, Malvin Moore, is in Arkansas attending funeral services of his father. The council sent telegrams expressing sympathy.

Paper claims peace talks start secretly

PARIS (AP) — A critical session of the Vietnam peace talks was set for Thursday amid unconfirmed reports that secret contacts were already under way between the United States and North Vietnam.

A Paris newspaper said the United States had proposed in a secret exchange with North Vietnam that a seven-day truce be put into effect, apparently to be followed by a general ceasefire.

U.S. officials here and in Washington wrote off the truce and ceasefire report as "completely without foundation." The U.S. peace talks delegation spokesman, Stephen Ledogar, would not, however, comment on reports that secret talks had begun. North Vietnamese officials noted inquiries about the report but had no comment.

The Newspaper France-Soir said it had obtained its information from a "good source" which was not further identified. It reported the North Vietnamese were in apparent agreement but problems had cropped up on terms of a ceasefire that presumably would follow a truce.

Political jobs

Recent controversies between certain SIU faculty members and the SIU Board of Trustees seem to be hinting around that "all is not quiet on the southern front." Because little has been resolved through opposition, it seems that the core of these problems is of a deeper meaning.

Heading the list of controversies with all of the fine print of litigation that hinges to it is the Doug Allen case. Being an outspoken professor at SIU is not the way to win friends and influence people as Doug Allen has found out. Allens being refused his tenure dictates more of a personal clash than one of qualification.

Next on the agenda we find the University holding $3,800 out of faculty paychecks last year for parking violations. The rightness of this action is still being considered.

Another fine example of University legislation is that of sex discrimination. The first case involved that of Marisa Canut-Amoros, former professor of Applied Science. Just recently we find a new case filed by Carolyn Weiss, staff assistant in the Cartographic Laboratory.

If matters stay as they are going, the next issue that comes out of the University's "jack in the box" is guaranteed to be a surprise. In a university as large as SIU and with the reputation it has of more or less being a progressive school, it seems we have a contradiction right in our own midst. Apparently if one is to place the blame for these controversies it must either go to the enforced rules, the rule enforcers, or to the people whom the rules apply to.

It is my contention that the blame is glued to the SIU Board of Trustees because they are the ones who do the enforcing and they are the ones who have the power to see to it that unjustified rules be eliminated. Why a university as large as SIU cannot adhere to change in a world that is constantly changing, seems to be the core of the problem at hand.

If there is to be any hope for the University and especially the faculty, new methods of appointing the Board of Trustees should be discussed. Whether it be through a public election or by appointment by the Student Senate in coordination with the faculty commission, it must be done. Appointment to a university's board of trustees because of political indebtedness, for example to a governor, does not appear to be the way to handle University problems. Let there be a board rule, but let there also be rules to be appointed to the board.

Letters to the editor

My friend Sam

To The Daily Egyptian:

I have a friend named Sam. Of course his name is really Samson Agonistes; and from this I am sure you can guess that he is a graduate student and a first-class worrier. Well, recently Sam had the opportunity for exercising his talent, for a few days ago he came across a memo from Vice President Willis E. Malone: now this memo wasn't addressed to Sam, but he saw it; and since it came from a location pretty close to the Almighty, and since it was about graduate assistants (Sam is one of that crew) it was grist for his worry-mill. It ordered the use of a new Graduate Student Appointment form which had been revised "significantly." Now Sam is upset by any change and the ominousness of a "significant" change struck him with terror. Sam always wonders about words and looked up this one; it meant full of meaning or import; that meant a serious new departure.

Well, when this document finally surfaced, actually a day before Sam saw the letter (Sam can worry backward through time) Sam was in his element; the dictionary was right; and Sam began to have bad dreams about the future (an occupational hazard of being a graduate student) and saw heads rolling in the streets from the 30 day termination guillotine: one night he even recognized his own.

And then suddenly the clouds rolled back and the sun appeared as bright and as yellow as the appointment form itself: the significant revision was merely a matter of style. It seemed that the Graduate School had requested an addition to the form stating, "This contract is subject to termination on a minimum of 30 days notice if assigned duties are not adequately performed." But it appears that the Graduate Faculty have trouble with words; they have lots of them to be sure, and big ones, but they don't quite know how to put them together; so (Sam learned by reading The Southern Illinoisian on April 28th) the eminent stylists in the President's Office went to work "to improve the earlier statement" because "there was some question as to how it could be better stated" and came up with a great and startling improvement: "THIS APPOINTMENT IS SUBJECT TO TERMINATION UPON 30 DAYS PRIOR WRITTEN NOTICE BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNIVERSITY."

Sam marveled at the way in which the same idea can be made to sound so different by stylistic change. But he didn't worry about it as he had gotten the idea from the first statement and he had been assured that they both said the same thing. But he did worry about all those capital letters. What were they intended to convey? Was there some secret message? Again that dream of rolling graduate heads.

But even these lingering doubts were swept away by a final assurance so that poor Sam had absolutely nothing left to worry about. For, he learned, this significant revision was not only just a verbal change, so that it really hadn't occurred at all, but at the same time what hadn't occurred was a harmless "human error," something no one in the President's Office had intended. And as Sam always says, "You have to allow people an honest mistake—about how much they can get away with."

Appalled

To the Daily Egyptian:

How can one express one's sense of being appalled, of being incredulous, of finding oneself in a state of disbelief? The addition of a new vice-presidential position at this time in SIU's period of financial crisis seems to fit all of these reactions.

When faculty, civil service and staff are released for lack of funds, when no equipment money has yet appeared for this year, when countless adjustments concerning students and faculty are being required in the name of "financial exigency", how can such a move have any but a completely demoralizing effect on the entire academic community.

A new task force to study and possibly reduce the administrative structure has been formed at the president's request. This does not seem like an auspicious corner stone. Fiscal responsibility and fairness in assuming reductions must be distributed equitably throughout the university. It should not occur only at the bottom.

Bomb threats

To the Daily Egyptian:

On Thursday, April 20, someone told someone else that there was a bomb in the Home Economics Building.

I was in the building. Someone told me to get out, so I did. Some of my friends in the building (fools!) said "Oh phooey." They did not believe that there was really a bomb in the Home Economics Building, so they continued their fooling around.

The SIU Security Police were meanwhile "searching" the building for the bomb. The Home Economics Building has five levels, at least sixteen classrooms, well over one-hundred lockers, hundreds of classroom desks, scores of office spaces, dozens of cabinets, and many, many other likely hiding places.

I want to call attention to the slam-bang job the Security Police did. They (1) did not disturb my idle friends at all, allowing them to frolic while the bomb was supposedly ticking along, and (2) searched the whole building in about thirty minutes at the most.

If you are a bomber, please don't ever put one (for real) in any populated area. It could be very bad. No one will know it's really there until it explodes.

Battle plan

To the Daily Egyptian:

Pham The Hung asked a very important question about the visiting representatives of the National Student Union of South Vietnam, "and if they are so crazy for peace, why don't they go home and fight for the left?"

It is sad that he does not know the answer: what the Communists cannot win on the battlefield, they hope to win at the "negotiating" table (read: U.S. pullout). In fact, they see no distinction between a political (propaganda) or military campaign—the results are the same. So their soldiers are trained to do both kinds of battle in South Vietnam and the U.S. And they know that they can gain South Vietnamese territory as surely by wearing down resistance in America as by cutting down bodies in South Vietnam.

Fight CIPS rate hikes

Critic criticized

To the Daily Egyptian:

Recently it was announced that Central Illinois Public Service is going to apply for rate increases for their "services." The increases are supposed to be from 11 to 18 per cent.

This would seem like an appropriate time to completely evaluate the whole role of giant utilities, their purpose and responsibilities. A utility is simply another term for monopoly. CIPS is a monopoly in the electric business and to some extent in the natural gas business. For a monopoly to be such, it enjoys certain advantages but should also have certain obligations. In the case of CIPS it seems that they desire all of the advantages but none of the responsibilities. The deposit system whereby CIPS extracts a large amount of money from their captive customers is a clear case of unreasonable "public be damned" thinking. If you have moved to town recently you will be well aware of the fantastic deposits demanded. Worse yet, live here for awhile and try to get your deposit back. The official excuse is that if you have always paid your bills "on time" you get it back, plus 7 per cent interest. The only hangup here is the definition of "on time" is not clarified. If you pay "late" they charge you extra.

The rate hike should simply not be allowed, but it will unless the public learns to stand up and actively oppose it. The next thing that the public should consider is the quality of people appointed to the Illinois Commerce Commission. This is the agency supposedly responsible for regulating monopolies like CIPS. The governor of Illinois is responsible for appointing these people. This November, let's at least hope that we can get a governor who will appoint people to the ICC who will take the side of the public instead of the monopolies.

To the Daily Egyptian:

There seem to be two standards of public conduct at this University—an Olympian one for Doug Allen, and an ordinary one for the rest of us. Whenever one of Allen's critics spots some picky little point he doesn't like he blows it up to a criticism of Allen's professional conduct.

I suppose if one of these critics saw Allen jaywalk he would write in about it.

Chauvinists revealed

To the Daily Egyptian:

Yesterday, while pushing my child in a stroller, I observed that the handle of the machine was too low for a person over six feet tall to push it comfortably. Since many more males than females are over that height, it is clearly another case of those chauvinists' efforts to make people subservient. We must campaign vigorously to thwart these chauvinists wherever they are! To that end, I and sympathizers are forming an organization—Chauvinists Revealed As Pretenders—to expose the monsters which may be lying among us and may not have been ferreted out. If we organize and keep very careful watch on the government, our neighbors, and even ourselves, and if we are ever alert, we can be liberated. Remember! Only by constant watchfulness to prevent anyone from getting out of step, can we be free.

Bad scene

To the Daily Egyptian:

"BAD SCENE AT SIU EDWARDSVILLE" read an editorial in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat claiming it was a mistake for SIU to invite the Russians to the Edwardsville campus. The Russians, the editorial said, should not be expected to do anything other than parrot their government's official line. The issue is further brought into perspective by the following facts:

a) the Russians were not students but middle aged propaganda experts (New York Times, April 11).
b) the American students chosen did not represent a cross section of the campus.

c) according to the New York Times 80 percent of the colleges asked by the State Department to host the Russians refused, seeing the worthlessness of it.

In this light, we see that the issue is not a few protesters at Edwardsville, but rather a state university using public funds to pay for racist propaganda. No wonder that those guilty of this expensive game have tried to shift public attention to a few young students who dared to protest:

Right on babies

To the Daily Egyptian:

It finally happened!

Ever since Women's Lib has been contending that under the Constitution and natural law, there should be no place where men go that is not open to females. I was afraid that one day some liberated daughters of Eve would break into the Male chauvinist pig's room, and, sure enough, that happened at SIU a few days ago.

Happy Birthday

To the Daily Egyptian:

On April 27th, I received a "birthday greeting" from the president of the august organization, Southern Illinois University. It's too bad my birthday wasn't the 27th instead of the 25th.

Since the University is usually crying for the lack of funds, I would wholeheartedly suggest that the sending of such stereotyped machine signed birthday cards be discontinued and the money diverted to more significant usage.

Agriculture professor joins SIU in Brazil

By University News Service
Herbert L. Portz, professor of plant industries, left for Brazil Saturday to be international director for the next two years of SIU's agricultural development program at the University of Santa Maria under contract with the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Portz will replace SIU agricultural industries instructor William Doerr, who is completing his two year assignment as international director of the program and will return to Carbondale at the end of May.

The UN-FAO sponsored SIU program is concerned with helping the University of Santa Maria in southern Brazil improve and enlarge its teaching, research and rural extension resources for better serving agriculture in that region. The area has diversified farming, with sheep and cattle production as major livestock enterprises and production of grain, fruit and vegetable crops for domestic use and export.

Eleven SIU specialists in various fields of agriculture currently are at the University of Santa Maria working with counterpart specialists at the institution under the cooperative program. As the project enters its third year, SIU School of Agriculture staff members going to Brazil early in the program will be returning during 1972 and will be replaced by others in needed specialty areas. Four SIU graduate students also are at the University of Santa Maria under graduate assistantships for 12 months of study, research and work with specialists in their graduate study areas.

Herbert L. Portz

Portz, a native of Waukesha, Wis., with a Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois, has been on the SIU faculty as a farm crops specialist since 1954. For a time he was assistant dean of the SIU School of Agriculture before going to Nepal in 1967 for a two-year assignment with SIU's vocational education development team in that country under an Agency for International Development program. For the last two years he has been on dual assignment with the SIU plant industries department and the SIU international center as campus coordinator of the University of Santa Maria program. Mrs. Portz will join her husband in Brazil during June.

Day and night care offered for children at two centers

By Carol Jo Krajac
Student Writer

The Attucks Multipurpose Center and the First United Methodist Church in Carbondale are now offering day and night care centers for children ranging in ages two through ten years.

The number of children enrolled in the two day care centers and the night center reaches approximately 160. Mrs. Walter Bowie, supervisor of the Attucks Multipurpose care center, said:

"One major problem which may arise when establishing a care center is securing the adequate funding sources. Our center is funded by the Social Security Act which pays for three fourths of the program. Model Cities in Carbondale pays for the other one fourth primarily," said Mrs. Bowie.

"However, we also receive parent fees for those children who are ineligible for the Title IV-A of Model Cities funding 'umbrella.' In addition we receive funds from the Church Women United Thrift Shop and food reimbursement under the special food service program," Mrs. Bowie said.

Ten day care centers are now operating in Carbondale. Each care center is required to abide by the standards and regulations the Department of Children and Family Services has established. Licenses are effective for two years.

Guidelines are outlined in booklet form by the department. A few of the standards involve administration, staff and working conditions, transportation and equipment utilized by each.

License applications are available from the department at the regional office in Murphysboro. Forms are prescribed and furnished by the department.

Dear Bugle:

Something strange has happened. An unusual recording by a relatively unknown artist has made it big on Top 40 radio. I am referring to "American Pie" by Don McLean.

Now that's not really the strange part. What is strange is that many supposedly aware people have condemned the record as being top 40 shit! I object!

I would ask these dilettantes, some of whom have indignantly and pedantically complained to a WZMF morning jockey about his playing the record, to listen with awareness and sensitivity to the whole recording.

Let McLean speak of the day "Music" died. The "Music" of another age. An age when it was so very good and easy not to have to think too deeply. Yesterday, when your troubles seemed far away. Allow McLean to outline for you as no history teacher ever has, the events that brought us where we are today... the demise of Elvis, the incredible influence of the Beatles, the assassination of President Kennedy, the Democratic convention of 1968, the passing of Janis Joplin and all that meant, the inauguration of President Nixon, and the moon flights... to mention just a few.

BUGLE AMERICAN Milwaukee, Wis.

After that first big step, listen to McLean's "American Pie" album! McLean shows himself to be not only a wonderful musician but an intensely beautiful poet.

One cut, "Vincent," says all there is to know about the genius that was Vincent Van Gogh. Mind you, Don McLean does not write song lyrics but poetry. McLean's story of Van Gogh's struggle with himself and with an "audience" which was not yet ready to even tolerate him fills the listener with rage and pity.

I find very, very little of any real value in the wide world of art. Don McLean is an exception. In the midst of a thousand heroic attempts, McLean has made it. Not since Dylan have I been so excited about a poet-musician. Please listen to him!"

Derge to address honors ceremony

By University News Service

A record number of academic achievers will be cited at the annual Honors Day ceremony May 21.

SIU's Office of Admissions and Records estimates 1,200 undergraduate students will qualify for honors recognition at the Sunday afternoon (2 p.m.) event in the SIU Arena.

Citations will go to freshmen and sophomores with 4.5 or better career grade point averages on SIU's five-point scale. Juniors and seniors must have maintained overall averages of 4.25 or better.

David R. Derge, president of SIU at Carbondale, will be master of ceremonies and will give a brief address to the honors assembly. Students, parents and friends will be University guests at a reception afterwards.

Rennie Davis to speak here

'Resist Repression' rally planned

By Pat Nussman
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Rennie Davis, a defendant in the Chicago Seven conspiracy trial, will speak at a 1 p.m. rally Saturday in the Old Main Park, sponsored by the Committee to Defend the Right to Speak (CDRS).

Davis, who was acquitted of conspiring to incite a riot during the 1968 Democratic National Convention, will speak as part of "Resist Repression" demonstrations, in conjunction with other antiwar strikes planned Saturday throughout the nation by the Student Mobilization Committee.

"The purpose of the 'Resist Repression' action," according to a flyer, "is to expose the repression on this campus, and relate it as a necessary function of Nixon's Vietnamization policy. Repression abroad means repression at home."

Along with Davis, a member of the Anti-War Union, will be Fred Brantman of Project Air War, Fred Halstead of the Socialist Workers Party and Douglas Allen, assistant professor of philosophy.

After the speeches in Old Main Park, there will be a march beginning at 3 p.m., which will proceed north on Illinois Avenue, west on Rte. 13, south on University Avenue, down College Avenue to the Center for Vietnamese Studies.

At 5 p.m. there will be music on the Pulliam Hall lawn and from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. there will be films on Vietnam and slides on the air war at the Student Christian Foundation.

At a press conference Wednesday, organizers of the event characterized the demonstration as national and predicted that people would attend from neighboring universities in the midwest.

The expected attendance at the demonstrations was estimated at approximately 1000.

The "Resist Repression" day, Nathan Gardels, a CDRS member, said, will focus on Nixon's policy in Vietnam. Allen, he said, was fired because he was critical of the Center for Vietnamese Studies, which is interconnected with Nixon's policy. "It's all interrelated," he said.

"That's what we hope to show. We feel that the University is pacified," Gardels stated at the press conference.

He cited the weekend street parties in downtown Carbondale and the activities of Alternative '72 as pacification projects instituted by city officials and the SIU administration, trying to give students alternatives to political action.

"We're attempting to break down the pacification on this campus," he said.

"There's nothing for adults to relate at the street parties," another CDRS member said. "It's just a kiddie-land."

At the press conference, a statement was also read blasting the Daily Egyptian coverage of the visit of 15 Vietnamese to SIU last week in opposition to the war.

Main target of CDRS attack was an editorial written by staff writer Ed Chambliss, criticizing Douglas Allen for his handling of the publicity for the Vietnamese 'invasion.'

"We, in the name of the visiting Vietnamese, demand a complete retraction from Ed Chambliss," the statement read.

According to members of the CDRS, Chambliss obtained his information only from accounts of the visit and his opinions "were often based on misconstrued and false information."

Chambliss "takes the right to defame the Vietnamese that were here," they said, and made very racist allegations.

"I think he ought to apologize to the Vietnamese," said a CDRS member. "He knows nothing about...any of these people."

"I personally think," said Peggy Curran of the CDRS, "that he had a lot of nerve to write such a damaging editorial when he doesn't know a damn thing about it."

"The editorial speaks for itself," said Chambliss later.

"I find it ironic that an organization calling itself the Committee to Defend the Right to Speak would have the nerve to ask someone else to take back what he said."

Double afternoon sessions to mark June 9 graduation

June commencement exercises will be held in two afternoon sessions, instead of the customary afternoon-evening format.

Andrew Marce, coordinator for the SIU Division of Continuing Education, said the change has been designed to help commencement guests who want to return home earlier after the second session. Exercises will be on June 9, a Friday.

Symposium set for Friday night

The Department of English will hold a symposium on "Chance and Destiny" at the University Club Ballroom of the Ramada Inn at 7:30 p.m. Friday. Six students and four faculty members from the department are scheduled to read 10 minute papers concerning chance and destiny in literature. Discussion may follow, time permitting. Interested persons have been invited to attend.

Graduates with last names beginning with letters A through K will receive degrees at 1:30 p.m. Others will be graduated at a 5:30 p.m. ceremony. Both will be in the SIU Arena.

Grad contracts questioned in philosophy union meeting

By Rich Lorenz
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A special meeting of graduate students concerning the structure of graduate and research assistant contracts produced discussion but no formal action.

The meeting, held at noon Wednesday at the Wesley Foundation, was attended by about 20 students. The meeting had been called by the Graduate Philosophy Union (GPU).

Chris Jensen, Graduate Student Council (GSC) secretary, said the Carbondale Federation of University Teachers (CFUT) has expressed some interest in the matter.

Proficiency test set for Saturday

The Music 010E proficiency examination for early childhood majors will be given at 10 a.m. Saturday in the Old Baptist Foundation, Room 201.

Students planning to take the exam should contact Marjorie Frazee in the Old Baptist Foundation, Room 4. Ms. Frazee said the exam will cover six major areas: literature, harmonization, improvisation, sight-reading and transposition, keyboard theory and a written exam.

Jensen said the CFUT is working through the governance system to help get a hearing procedure for the assistants. Jensen added the GSC has asked that any changes in assistant contracts be sent to the council.

The meeting was called in response to contracts which contained a 30-day termination clause. The clause, added by the educational policies committee of the Graduate School Council, was intended to eliminate assistants who were not doing their job.

Last week, the theater and philosophy departments and the School of Communication and Fine Arts got copies of the contract which said assistants could be terminated with 30-days notice.

Clark Davis, special assistant to the vice-president for academic affairs, took the responsibility for the elimination of failure to perform duties clause.

Davis said neither President David R. Derge nor the president saw the form before it was distributed. Willis E. Malone, executive vice-president, said the contracts were going to be recalled.

Gordon Haist, president of the GPU, read a statement passed by the union concerning the contract. The statement called the contract "a scandal," unfair and unreasonable.

Manager's job called terrifying; Fry to assume position June 5

By Barry Cleveland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A former Carbondale city manager has taken a new job, the current manager calls his position "terrifying" and the incoming manager will be in the city May 11, 12 and 13.

Bill Schmidt, who was city manager from 1969 until he resigned last Dec. 31, announced Wednesday morning that he has been hired as the first town manager of Cheshire, Conn.

Schmidt will take over the Cheshire job May 15 at a salary comparable to his current salary of $20,000.

Schmidt has been working part time for the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs since his resignation.

Bill Schwegman, city public works director who has been acting city manager since Jan. 1, notified the city council Tuesday that he will return to the public works department full-time June 4.

In a statement which Schwegman read to the council Tuesday night, he said his five months as acting city manager had been "anything but dull," but added that it provided him with "some excellent experiences and a few more gray hairs."

Schwegman credited assistant city manager Jerry Maxwell and acting finance director David Rosenthal with accomplishing the preparation of the city budget, the establishment of a new pay plan for the city's non-union employees and the negotiation of three two-year contracts with local unions.

The public works director also cited the mayor and city council for a lack of "administrative meddling" and the maintenance of a good working relationship.

Mayor Neal Eckert thanked Schwegman on behalf of the council for his services.

Eckert's office announced Wednesday that Carroll J. Fry, who will take over as city manager June 5, will visit Carbondale to meet people and acquaint himself with the city. Currently city manager of Winona, Minn., Fry was hired appointed as Carbondale city manager April 11.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A young priest, the Rev. It seemed out of context with our own call for peace."

Preference poll ballot shows McGovern student favorite

George McGovern is the top student choice for president of the United States, according to the results of a presidential preference referendum conducted during last week's general Student Government election.

Out of 3,553 votes cast, McGovern received 1,103, nearly twice as many as his closest competitor, Richard Nixon, who received 616 votes.

Larry Roth, newly elected Brush Towers student senator, announced the results Wednesday. He said the Young Socialists for Jenness and Pulley (YSJP) sponsored the special ballot.

The YSJP presidential candidate, Linda Jenness, was ninth on the list with 63 votes.

The top ten favorites starting with third place are: Eugene McCarthy, 406; Edward Kennedy, 319; Shirley Chisholm, 309; Edmund Muskie, 273; George Wallace, 146; Hubert Humphrey, 116; Linda Jenness, 63 and Pat Paulson, 39.

Some fifty persons received votes on the ballot including Archie Bunker, Mickey Mouse, Jimmy Hendrix and Rocket J. Squirrel.

The results of other special referendum ballots distributed last week are expected to be released Friday.

'Radical economics' theorist to give public lecture Thursday

An economist from the New School for Social Research who is considered a leading theorist of "radical economics" will give a public lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in Neckers Building, Room B440.

The lecturer is Edward Nell, professor of economics at the New York-based school, who will talk on "Economic Power." His lecture is being sponsored by the Department of Economics and Office of Special Meetings and Speakers.

Radical economics is a movement within academic economics.

Nell in a recent article discussing economic power in a "Social Research" journal said orthodox economics has become cut off from the central economic issues by failing to give the distribution of income between labor and capital a central role and by failing to properly recognize that efficiency tends to be subservient to power.

"The heart of the matter is the concept of capital and its relation to social class and economic power," he wrote. "When this is put right... economic theory can once again speak to the critical issues of the day."

Student charges IBHE

with statute violation

By Sue Roll
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Ken Midkiff, former chairman of the Student Advisory Committee to the Illinois Board of Higher Education, has charged that the board has violated state statutes in manipulating state higher education.

Midkiff made this statement to the state House of Representatives committee on higher education Tuesday.

Although the board's function is essentially an advisory one according to the statutes, the board has surpassed this function and become a central higher education governing board by its powers to disapprove new programs and its influence on the funding of higher education institutions in the state, Midkiff said.

Midkiff points out that Master Plan Phase III is a prime example of the board's usurping of legislative power because the board avoided the necessity of legislative enactment of the recommendations of the plan as is required by the state statutes.

Although there has been no legislative action on this, programs are being phased out at universities under the direction of the board through board recommendations for reduced funding for these programs, he said.

Financial coercion is the main tool for implementing the board's unilateral decisions, Midkiff said.

As other examples of the board's blossoming powers, Midkiff gave the tuition increase "which was forced on the individual governing boards even though all had been opposed to it" and the ineffectual information system between state colleges and universities.

"The executive director and his staff have assumed positions of power that are not even hinted at in the statutes, in fact the executive director is synonymous with the Board of Higher Education, Midkiff said.

By ignoring these statutes, Midkiff said, the board has become autocratic if not tyrannical.

"If the situation cannot be revised or corrected then perhaps it would be best to abolish the Illinois Board of Higher Education and find some other means of planning and coordinating the system of higher education in Illinois."

Granite holds interest of SIU rock climbers

By University News Service

There's a rock group at SIU called the Mountaineers who enjoy holding their rockfalls all by themselves. Their interests lie not in vibrations but in the properties of sandstone, limestone, and granite, especially granite.

The Mountaineers are a score of SIU student rock climbers, including three girls, who scale steep inclines using ropes, or go about the business as "backpackers"—those who hike up rugged rises if they'd rather not take the Alpinist role.

The Mountaineers membership is open to any student who likes the outdoors and right now a membership drive is under way.

"We believe there is really nothing treacherous about our pastime," said club president Joe Dittamore, a junior in zoology and botany from Effingham. "To us it's a sport. We practice here for our big trips which have taken us, into Colorado and North Carolina."

Here, he said, a pair of climbers practice together with a 150-foot rope. The two help and protect each other during a steep climb.

Art Pencek of Chicago, a junior in outdoor recreation who was working at a membership recruitment table in the Student Center, said the club got into gear last fall and has its charter as an approved University organization.

"All the charter members had some experience in rock climbing," he said. Groups on weekends go into the Giant City State Park area south of Carbondale and to Draper's Bluff on Lick Creek south near Interstate 57. Once a month a larger number will travel to a park near Arcadia, Mo., called Johnson's Shut-In (because it is closed in by high walls).

"We like to climb there because the rock areas are granite," Pencek said. "We prefer granite to the softer rock because of the firmer footing it provides."

Over the break between the winter and spring quarters of classes, groups enjoyed climbs near Boulder, Colo., the Smoky Mountains in North Carolina, and Devil's Lake State Park in Wisconsin.

The Mountaineers take to the hills both summer and winter around SIU. Hiking up steep inclines is in vogue nearly all the time, but rope climbing is out when weather is bad, unless the sun is coming down on the rocks.

Inmate sues prison officials for blackmailing his spouse

HILLSBORO, ILL. (AP) — An inmate at Menard State Prison has sued for release in Circuit Court, alleging that his 16-year old wife was forced to have sexual relations with two men who said they had influence at the prison.

Melvin Paproth, 24, of Litchfield, also filed a civil suit in Circuit Court in Chester seeking $750,000 in damages.

Paproth said in his petition filed in court in Hillsboro Tuesday that his wife, Janine, was blackmailed by Russ Rader and Ed Buie, both of Chester, who told her they had influence at the prison. The suit said Rader once served as Paproth's prison counselor.

The suit said that Paproth's wife moved into Buie's apartment Jan. 24 and remained there until Feb. 18. The civil damage suit also named as a defendant Eliza Brantley, Menard warden who was Rader's supervisor.

Paproth pleaded guilty June 22 to the Dec. 18, 1970 burglary of a farm home near Litchfield. He failed to appear June 30 for sentencing and was arrested Sept. 12 in Mitchell, S.D. He was sentenced Oct. 4 to serve three to seven years in prison. Paproth filed the civil suit as a "poor person" without an attorney.

Judge Paul Hickman of the Circuit Court in Hillsboro entered Paproth's petition for release and ordered notice be given to the Montgomery County state's attorney.

HHH runs second in delegate race

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert Humphrey gained on George McGovern in the Tuesday primary scramble for Democratic delegates, but McGovern remained clearly in the lead.

Humphrey jumped past Edmund Muskie, who had been in second place in delegate strength, with his 55-delegate scoop from a first place finish in the Indiana primary.

George Wallace gained 21 delegates in Indiana and 15 in his home state Alabama, but stays in fourth place in terms of total delegates committed to vote for him at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach in July.

McGovern now has 240 1/2 delegates' votes, followed by Humphrey with 140, Muskie with 128 1/2 and Wallace with 113. The other candidates trail far behind.

Convo critics see several solutions

Do I tell them that our students' education has yet to teach them how to act properly—what do I say?

Hibbs said he thought that students could be expected to act better. Some students, however, feel the course credit the reason there is so much noise at Convocation.

"Students shouldn't be put in a situation where they are forced to go to things they don't want to see. I'm against the idea of giving credit for Convocation," Ray Krol, former host for the Convocation, said.

Krol thinks Convocation should be made optional and that fewer shows should be put on. "I think the University should try and get some really good talent once a month rather than a bunch of dullards four times a month," he added.

Krol thought that if Convocation was optional the program could be moved from the Arena to Shryock Auditorium. "The building itself is an unruly place. People in the back build up a sense of detachment from the show because they are so far away," he said.

Hibbs said he realized the Arena is too large for some shows. "But I don't know how I would estimate the size of the crowd each week—even if we could always get Shryock Auditorium," he added.

Convocations which are musical or theater-oriented and the lectures on sex and violence, seem to go over the best, according to Hibbs. "But we can't deal just with sex and violence—a university should and must offer more in the realm of ideas," he commented.

Malcolm Rothman, another host for Convocation, said he thinks the University too often has presented irrelevant speakers. "Things at Convocation should be geared to the way students think and to what a large audience could enjoy," he said.

Unlike Krol, he thought there should be more lectures and educational experiences, but that the speakers should have something to say. He cited such speakers as Julia Meade and Cleo Dawson as those who had nothing to say.

He also differed with Hibbs on the matter of politeness. "I think it's an American tradition to boo a bad speaker—and I think that's good. If something is bad, then people should say so then and there, instead of pretending that the performance is bearable when it isn't," Rothman said.

L. Clark Davis, assistant to the president, doesn't quite go along with Rothman's philosophy either. He said that when he was dean of student affairs, his office was in charge of the records and discipline at Convo. If there were any disturbances, the program was interrupted until the noise stopped.

C. Horton Talley, Dean of the College of Communications and Fine Arts, said that as he recalls, Davis did more than just stop and wait for the noise to subside.

"He used to go down into the audience and make the students come up to the stage and apologize for their conduct," he said. Talley at that time was the Convocation coordinator.

Hibbs said he didn't agree with the policing idea. "I have tried to approach it thinking that I was dealing with mature individuals and thus could expect mature conduct," Hibbs said.

However, Hibbs did not think he got that and now feels embarrassed and humiliated for the performers when the audience is restless.

"People used to come and speak before a large audience like we have. Now word has gotten around that SIU is a rough stop on the circuit," he said.

"This cannot continue," Hibbs said angrily. "Something is going to have to change. We are either going to drop the credit course, modify the program or find some other way to live with the problem."

Talley does not feel the program can survive without some mandatory attendance. Instead of doing away with the program, Talley would like to see tighter controls.

"I would see what could be done about limiting who could take the course. Anyone who left early—I would tear up his card. Credit cards should be given out at the top of the aisles and collected there—that might prevent a lot of running around by the audience," Talley suggested.

Another Convocation host, Jim Peters, agreed that the building itself and the quality of performers are part of the problem. However, Peters also believes that many students take the course as a place for social gatherings.

"I know a lot of kids who get together and take the course just because it's the only time they can talk with their friends," Peters said.

He thought the University should decide what Convocation is meant to be. "If you're going to do it for cultural reasons—then they should do away with the class. If it is a one-hour escape period for students, then they should improve the quality of Convocation, in which case it wouldn't hurt to round up good student talent," he said.

Employee says council should leave U-Senate

By Monroe Walker
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A Nonacademic Employees Council member Wednesday moved that the council withdraw from the University Senate.

In making the motion at the regular monthly meeting, Raymond L. Yarbrough, of purchasing, said that most of the legislation passed by the Senate, did not affect the council and that 90 per cent of the legislation is criticism of the administration." He listed parking legislation as the exception.

"The president will listen to this council," he said, "so why not go directly to the president."

Other members, however, felt that the council should wait a month to allow new council members to look into the matter and, after deliberation, decided to take the matter up at the next meeting in June.

Yarbrough made a motion to resign his seat as council representative on the University Senate because he could "no longer be a part of it."

The motion passed unanimously. Earlier, new council members were seated and Donald C. Gladden, administrative accountant, was elected as the new chairman. Last years chairman, Lee Hester, Botany, was chosen vice-chairman and Margaret Hill, Payroll, was reelected secretary and given the additional duties of treasurer.

The new council is comprised of 14 members and includes Walter Barwick, of the Physical Plant; Hilda V. Born, of VTI; Carolyn Fleming, Forestry; Joseph W. Gasser, of Housing Services; Donald C. Gladden, administrative accountant; John T. Halstead, Security Officer; Lee Hester, Botany; Margaret T. Hill, Payroll; William T. Hertler, of the Physical Plant; Robert James, of the Physical Plant; Joe A. Moore, financial analysis; John Robinson, security officer; Bill Steele, of the Physical Plant; and Raymond L. Yarbrough, Purchasing.

The next meeting will be at 1 p.m. Wednesday on June 7 in General Classrooms 121.

IPIRG reports wrong bank rates

Lloyd C. Henderson, executive vice president of Carterville State and Savings Bank, said Wednesday the Illinois Public Interest Research Group's survey of bank services contained two errors in information about his bank.

Henderson said the interest paid by the Carterville bank on two-year certificates of deposit is 5 3/4 per cent—the limit permitted by law—and not 6 per cent. He said the bank charges 25 cents for savings account withdrawals after the first withdrawal. The bank does not provide two free withdrawals per month. Henderson said, or have a minimum balance for determining withdrawal charges as indicated in information published by IPIRG in Wednesday's Daily Egyptian.

Screaming coed scares off attacker

An SIU coed was attacked early Wednesday morning while walking across campus but escaped unhurt when her assailant was apparently frightened off by her screams.

The woman, a 19-year-old coed from Mt. Prospect, told police she was returning from work to her room in Mae Smith Hall at about 12:55 a.m. Wednesday when she was grabbed from behind and knocked down on a dirt path just south of Hillel House.

She said her assailant, described as a white male, about 21, of medium height and weight, followed her after she crossed the Illinois Central Railroad tracks at Grand Avenue.

The man ran up behind her, grabbed her by both arms and knocked her down, the woman said. He fled when she screamed at him.

Police reported sighting a man fitting the description given by the woman running toward University City residence hall shortly after the incident occurred but were unable to apprehend him.

Police also reported a number of thefts, including the April 17 theft of a University film projector by a man using a false identification.

The projector, a 16 millimeter Kodak worth $464, had been used at the Horse Center at University Farms April 15. It was being held for transfer back to the Learning Resources Service when a man appeared at the Agriculture Animal Industries office April 17 to pick it up.

The man, who was described as white, about 21, with horn-rimmed glasses, said he was from Learning Resources Service and the projector was released to him. The theft was discovered later in the week when an authorized representative of Learning Resources came by to pick up the projector.

An unknown amount of tools and lathe accessories was stolen from a wooden cabinet in the basement of Pulliam Hall Friday. Police said a pry bar was apparently used to break into the storage cabinet.

Eddie C. Donaldson, 20, Boomer Hall, reported the theft of his 10-speed Sears bicycle from near his room Tuesday morning. Donaldson said the blue bike is worth $85.

A blue Sears bicycle worth $45 was reported stolen over the weekend from near Neely Hall by Barbara A. Rushing, 21, Neely Hall.

Contest Winners

Contemplating new additions to the animal industries department trophy display are SIU's 1972 poultry judging team members with some of the six major awards they won last month in the Southern Invitational Collegiate Poultry Judging Contest at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. Showing the trophies are, from left, Keith Underwood, Frank Huber, Steven Sauer, Prof. Bill Goodman, SIU faculty team sponsor, and Thomas McLaughlin.

Ag student judging team members return with first place awards

By University News Service

The SIU School of Agriculture student groups have returned from weekend contests with awards for winning performances.

SIU's poultry judging team won over seven other university teams from southern states April 20-21. The team ranked first in total scores, first each in production and breed selection divisions, and second in poultry products judging.

The School's seven-man livestock judging team placed second in judging and fourth in livestock quality evaluation among 13 teams in the Southeastern Collegiate Livestock Evaluation and Judging Contest at Mississippi State University Friday and Saturday.

Eighteen SIU forestry students taking part in the University of Missouri Invitational Foresters Conclave at Columbia, Mo., Saturday returned with the contest participation plaque, as most of the students piled up points in the various events testing skill and endurance in an assortment of contests, such as axe throw, one and two-man crosscut sawing, speed chopping, log rolling and others.

In the Mississippi State University meet the SIU team was nosed out of first in judging by Virginia Polytechnic Institute. The SIU team won the sheep evaluation contest, and ranked second in swine evaluation. In the animal judging divisions the team took third in swine, fourth in beef cattle and fifth in sheep.

Team members Bernard Hillen, Batchtown (Ill.), and Eric Rincker, Windsor, compiled the most points in individual scoring among team members in the contest.

Saigon replaces northern general

SAIGON (AP)—The Saigon government, shaken by the debacle at Quang Tri, changed commands in the far north Wednesday, putting the defenses there in the hands of a general highly regarded by the Americans.

Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong, who has been commander of the southernmost military region 4 including the Mekong Delta, was placed in command of the northern region in the hope he could reverse the fortunes of battle.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuam Lam, who commanded in northern military region 1, was called to Saigon and presumably got the news of his dismissal from President Nguyen Van Thieu. The South Vietnamese command said the changes were made on direct orders from Thieu. Brig. Gen. Vu Van Giai was named as commander of the 3rd

Infantry Division that was badly battered at Quang Tri. An announcement said he was put under investigation.

The 3rd Division, formed only last year, received the full shock when the North Vietnamese swept across the demilitarized zone March 30 to launch the spring offensive. It quickly abandoned frontier bases and fell back to Quang Tri, where it was shattered in the battle for that northernmost provincial capital.

The loss of Quang Tri opened the way for a North Vietnamese advance on Hue, the old imperial capital 32 miles to the south.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird ordered a team of experts to Vietnam to find out what the South Vietnamese need to blunt the enemy offensive and to determine if U.S. troops need more supplies to protect themselves.

Riding club rodeo events attract many entrants

The Block and Bridle Club will host a rodeo at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the E. K. S. Stock Farm.

The events, which will include bull-riding, calf-roping and barrel-racing, will be open to all interested participants. There will also be a goat scramble for children.

Robert Weilmuenster, club president, said he expects the bull-riding to be the highlight of the day and the club will have 12 or 15 bulls available for riders. The entry fee for the bull-riding will be $5 and all money will be used as prizes for the contestants. Other prizes will be donated by several Carbondale merchants.

Urban specialist to give lecture Tuesday night

Mrs. Sarah Smith, an urban affairs specialist for General Electric, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Ballroom A at the Student Center.

Her lecture, "Making Heaven out of a Little Hell," is sponsored jointly by SIU's Lectures and Entertainment Committee, the School of Home Economics, the department of family economics, and the Student Home Economics Association.

A member of the Advisory Committee to the Youth Motivation Task Force of the National Alliance of Businessmen, Mrs. Smith recently spent a six-month leave of absence from General Electric to work with Rev. Leon Sullivan's Opportunities Industrialization Centers, coordinating communications activities.

A dinner at 6 p.m. will precede the lecture. Reservations for the dinner, costing $3, must be made in advance with Karen Craig, department of family economics, phone 453-2069. Checks should be made payable to Interstate United Food Service.

The public is invited to attend the speech only without charge.

Cost of education rises in Houston public schools

HOUSTON (AP)—The Tax Research Association of Houston and Harris County says the cost of educating pupils in public schools in Houston has almost doubled in nine years.

At the present rate of increase, the TRA says, school spending will double in the next five years although enrollment will rise only moderately.

The average cost of educating each pupil in county schools was $666.54 last school year, compared to $359.36 in 1961-62, the report said.

Health care organization forms for SIU and area

By Sue Miller
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Shawnee Regional Health Maintenance Organization (SRHMO), became incorporated Tuesday, according to George O'Neill, director of SRHMO.

"This," he said, "was done to help plan, develop and establish an HMO which could combine community efforts with those of the University."

O'Neill, speaking in an interview, explained a tentative SRHMO proposal which would place some members of the present University Health Advisory Board (HAB) on the Board of Directors for the SRHMO. In addition to the board of directors there may be a medical advisory board and a consumer advisory board.

He emphasized that all plans for the SRHMO are tentative. "We are only thinking about having consumer and medical advisory boards — nothing is final, though," he said.

O'Neill said the reason special advisory boards are being considered is to protect the interests of the community. "If we only had a few representatives from these two groups, they would still individually be minorities on the board. It might happen that a vital interest to consumers would be overlooked because of improper representation," he added.

In January of 1973, the SRHMO is scheduled to begin providing comprehensive health care for the area. O'Neill said that student fees will be collected by the University and turned over to the SRHMO, which then will contract with health care providers. Community involvement in the program will be voluntary and fees will be collected in much the same way as an insurance policy.

He said while the University may make it mandatory for students to be involved in the SRHMO one qualification for an HMO is that comprehensive health care be provided for "voluntarily enrolled participants."

He said the $75 per year fee, which the consultants for HAB are proposing for students, would not be the same fee charged community members.

There will be plans for families, couples, singles and couples with one dependant. "The community will have much more comprehensive care including such things as out-of-area coverage and 90 days hospitalization per illness," he said.

O'Neill estimated that $45 per month for health care may be the fee charged for the family. No matter what plan is selected, fees will not be raised or lowered because of an age factor.

"I think community response to the SRHMO will be slow at first. But once word spreads and people understand what a good deal it is, I think reaction to the plan will pick up markedly," he said.

O'Neill speculated that if it is made mandatory for students to join the second year of SRHMO, there will be more than 30,000 members after the second year of operation. "At that number we would be operating at an efficient-break even number," he added.

Goal hearings finished; results to be evaluated

Three months of public hearings to determine what goals Carbondale citizens think their city should shoot for have been completed, Don Monty, Goals for Carbondale program coordinator, said Wednesday.

Results of the hearings, held by the program's five subcommittees since February, will be evaluated during May, along with information gathered through written surveys and meetings of subcommittee members with civic groups.

Each subcommittee will submit a draft of the goals presented in its hearings to Monty by June 2. The five separate drafts will then be analyzed by the program's steering committee, which will fit the goals into priority classifications, Monty said.

The steering committee will compile a draft of goals the city should establish, then submit the draft to the general public for its reaction, probably during July, he said.

A final goals document then will be drawn up by the steering committee and submitted to the Carbondale City Council by early August. The council then will decide which, if any, of the goals to take action on, Monty said.

A rumble seat made a good car a little better. So does a rear door.

1931 Model A Roadster.

1972 Pinto Runabout shown with optional white sidewall tires, rocker panel molding and accent group.

When you make a solid, sensible, economical little car you don't change it. Except to make it better.

Now that we're making that kind of car again, that's the only kind of change we're going to make.

For example, we've made a Runabout model of the Ford Pinto. It has a rear door the basic Pinto doesn't have. And rear seats that fold down for extra cargo space that's five feet long. Everything else is the same.

A gutsy little engine that gets the same economical kind of gas mileage as the little imports.

A solid-as-a-rock four speed transmission. Sports car steering. A welded steel body with six coats of paint.

Pinto is wide and stable, but not big. It's got plenty of leg and shoulder room, but it's barely 1 1/2 inches longer than the leading import.

There you have it. The basic Pinto: a good little car. Our Pinto Runabout: a little better good little car.

See them at your Ford dealer's.

When you get back to basics, you get back to Ford.

Many athletes here back loop pullout

By Ernie Schweit
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Many SIU athletes have expressed satisfaction with the SIU Board of Trustees recent decision to pull out of the Midwestern Conference.

The board approved the move at its April 21 meeting in Carbondale by a voice vote without dissent. The withdrawal, if approved by the conference board of governors, is to be completed no later than July 1, 1973.

Three reasons were given for the withdrawal: 1) different entrance requirements at other universities as compared with SIU's 2) SIU's athletic philosophy which stresses a "balanced program," instead of emphasizing football or basketball and 3) the competition in some sports handicaps SIU's development and competitive ability.

"I'm for it," said former Saluki quarterback Brad Pancoast. "I think it's a good thing because some of the teams we played last year were holding us back. Besides, our entire athletic department is better than the other schools' overall."

The Salukis played three conference schools in football last season and came away with a 2-1 record. They beat Illinois State and Ball State and lost to Indiana State. Northern Illinois isn't scheduled to face the Salukis until 1973, the date originally set for conference football play to begin.

"It's kind of weird," said varsity defensive back Gary Powell. "I really don't care, but I guess I'd rather be out of the conference playing tougher teams."

Swimmer Pat Miles agreed with Powell, saying being out of the conference should toughen SIU's swimming schedule. "Now we'll have a chance to swim better schools," he said. "The schools in the conference are getting there, but they aren't quite in the class of competition we should be swimming against." The conference swimming title has gone to the Salukis both times it was awarded. The fact that Southern didn't train for the conference meet indicates the level of competition in the three-year-old league. The swimmers have never lost a conference dual meet.

One athlete who cast a dissenting vote on SIU's pulling out was wrestler-football player Dan Robinson.

"We weren't in it long enough to give it a chance," he said. "Some schools might have good teams one year and bad ones the next. Who knows? Maybe we had the good ones the last two years?"

The wrestlers also took the conference title both years it was awarded. SIU won 10 of 11 conference titles in 1970-1971, the first full season of conference competition. The only crown to escape the Salukis' grasp was in golf.

This season the other schools in the loop fared a little better. The cross country and basketball titles have escaped Southern's hands with four championships yet to be decided.

"I can see where winning 10 out of 11 championships can be rather dull," said second baseman Howard Mitchell. "It's a good idea that we look for tougher competition."

Last season the Saluki baseball team took the conference crown with an 11-1 mark. This year they are undefeated in league playing, having only played Indiana State twice.

"The competition in the conference has impressed me," Mitchell continued. "Indiana State had some good pitching even though we hit them hard. I know some of the guys at Illinois State because I've played with them in the past and they're good ball players; so I think the competition in the conference is tough."

Two Chicago homers Cubs burn Braves, 12-1

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Williams smashed a three-run homer and Jose Cardenal drove across five runs to back Fergy Jenkins' steady pitching as the Chicago Cubs defeated the Atlanta Braves 12-1 Wednesday.

Williams fifth-inning homer gave the Cubs a 7-0 lead and chased loser Pat Jarvis, who was also clubbed for three runs in the fourth and Jim Hickman's leadoff homer in the second.

Jenkins, 2-2, blanked the Braves until the sixth when two walks enabled the Braves to fill the bases after Hank Aaron's leadoff single. But they got only one run on Darrell Evans' sacrifice fly.

Golf, softball on IM agenda

Entrants in the intramural golf tournament will tee off at 7:30 a.m. May 20 and 21.

This 18-hole medal play tournament will be divided into four classes and will be played at Midland Hills Golf Club. Prizes for the tournament will include free golf passes for Midland Hills and trophies.

Entrants must sign up and pay a $3 entry fee at the intramural office in the SIU Arena, room 125, before May 12. Golfers are encouraged to sign up early because the field will be limited to 75 players.

The following softball contests have been scheduled for 4:15 p.m. Thursday by the office of intramurals and recreation.

Field 1, Hal's C & T vs. Stokers; Field 2, Thunderbirds vs. F-Troop; Field 3, Savage Like vs. Nickelbag; Field 4, Booby's vs. Bonapartes; and Field 5, Delta Upsilon vs. Sigma Pi.

Good leads Road Runners

Marilyn Good did even better than her last name implies last weekend.

She placed first in the eight-mile run for women in pacing the Southern Illinois Road Runners delegation in the second annual Gateway Arch Run in St. Louis. No team places were awarded.

Eleven members of the Road Runners participated in a field of 250.

Other high finishes accented the club's effort. Cheryl Miller placed third in the women's eight-mile run while Ken Ackerman finished second in the men's bracket.

Ben Huntley and Mark Pealstrom finished second and fourth, respectively, in the 14-mile run. Other SIU road runners awarded medals in that event included Frank Velk, Ron Knowlton and Gary Holda.

The five runners in the preceding paragraph placed second as a team to a squad from the University of Illinois.

A score orienteering tournament is the next activity for the club, starting at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at the west entrance of the SIU Arena.

The Road Runners also plan two more races for May—A Tri-a-thlon on the 14th and the spring championship run on May 21. Anyone is eligible to enter the runs, according to Ackerman, spokesman for the club.

Gymnasts switch roles: Terry back in action, Morava on injury list

By Jim Braun
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The injury bug has hit the Southern Illinois gymnastics circles and a couple of members might wonder if it's really "contagious."

Ask Gary Morava about the source of an ailing back and he just may point an accusative finger at Terry Spencer, another of those ballerinas on the mats.

Morava has reversed roles with Ms. Spencer. The latter is now recuperating from an early February mishap at gymnastics practice which fractured a vertebra.

A doctor at the Health Service had conservatively predicted a six-month recovery period for Ms. Spencer.

Now out of the sick bed, she has begun working out for a May 24 Olympic trial which Ms. Spencer was never supposed to enter.

"I can't say whether her recovery period was that fast," women's head coach Herb Vogel said. "We really didn't know how serious Terry's injury was at that time."

Vogel has decided to send both Ms. Spencer and Carolyn Riddel to Sunday's United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) Elite Championships in Statesboro, Ga. Also in attendance will be Southern's Tom Lindner.

"This will probably be the best place to start Terry," Vogel said, "since she needs some competition before the next trials."

The three-time All-America has automatically advanced to those trials in Long Beach, Calif., because she was on the 1971 Pan-American Games team.

For Ms. Riddel, it's a different story. She needs to score a 72 (a 9.0 average on both compulsory and optional events) total to gain a berth in the Olympic trials.

"It's going to be real tough for her since only three of the 20-some qualifiers have scored at least 72 thus far," Vogel said.

Recently wounded in the gymnastics wars, Morava thinks his ailing back might be the result of a long plane ride. The all-around man, one of the major ingredients in last month's national championship squad, is currently nursing what assistant coach Jack Beisterfeldt describes as "a real tight set of muscles" in the lower left back region.

It happened in the midst of Morava's wanderings to the Riga (Russia) Invitational, represented by 20 nations.

"My back got really sore on that long (10-hour) plane ride," Morava stated, "and it got worse and worse while I was competing."

The pain forced Morava to prematurely dismount on the next-to-last optional event (high bar) and drop out of competition. He had earlier scored "about 49" in the compulsory exercises.

1972 Olympic coach Abie Grossfield brought two men (Morava and Steve Hug) and two women (Joan Moore and Kim Chase) to represent the U.S.

According to Morava, Hug (former Olympian) scored 103 and placed about 20th.

Daily Egyptian
Sports

Japan's gymnasts, perennial gold medalists in the Olympics, took a back seat to the Soviet hosts. All-around winner for the men was a 19-year-old Soviet named Andrinoff who scored 113.45 points. His teammate finished second while the Japanese duo placed third and fifth, respectively.

"Gymnastics is probably Russia's second biggest sport, next to ice hockey," Morava remarked. "There were 10,000 people in the stands on all three nights."

The Olympic trials for men are creeping up and in two weekends, a field of 20-some qualifiers will narrow down to 12.

Both Lindner and Morava have qualified for the May 19-20 trials in Berkeley, Calif. Morava, however, has not begun to push the panic button.

"It's hurting but I don't think it's that serious. I'll be ready," he promised.

"It can't be that serious," Beisterfeldt said, "because of the suddenness of the injury."

Hug, presently a sophomore at Stanford, had to "retire" from gymnastics for a year with a back ailment.

According to Beisterfeldt, Hug was afflicted with a hormonal imbalance which caused decalcification in his bones. The symptoms are not uncommon for late teens but the assistant coach still labeled the disorder as "very rare."

"The chances are so remote (about 1,000 to 1) that Gary's got the same disorder. But then, you never can tell."

SIDEBARS: Morava's ailment has caused him to miss this weekend's USGF meet...Bill Meade, coach of all four championship gymnastics teams at SIU, is expected back home immediately following the weekend meet. A member of the 1972 Olympic committee, he is presently conducting business in Munich setting up housing arrangements for the U.S. team.

West hits 4,000th point

Lakers one up on Knicks

NEW YORK (AP)—Los Angeles' Jerry West became the first player in National Basketball Association playoff history to score 4,000 career points as the Lakers held off a fourth-quarter New York comeback and defeated the Knicks 107-96 Wednesday night, gaining a 2-1 advantage in their championship series.

Game No. 4 in the best-of-seven set will be played Friday night at Madison Square Garden.

West, named to play in the NBA's All-Star game in each of his 12 seasons in the league, and the Most Valuable Player in this year's midseason classic, scored 21 points against the Knicks. His last two points, on a jump shot from the right side with just over three minutes remaining, gave him 4,001 points in 133 playoff games.

Towering Wilt Chamberlain, the 7-foot-1½, 275-pound center, led the Lakers with 26 points, one more than Gail Goodrich.

Walt Frazier, a former Saluki, topped the Knicks with 25 points, while Jerry Lucas added 23.

Knicks' forward David DeBusschere who started despite a pulled muscle in his right side above the hip, suffered in Sunday's second game, played 20 minutes in the first half but generally was ineffective. He missed all six of his field goal attempts but grabbed nine rebounds, high for New York.

However, DeBusschere did not play in the second half, when the Lakers broke open the game with a 20-5 spurt in the first six minutes.

The burst pulled the Lakers to a 72-52 lead and the Knicks never came closer than seven points—late in the fourth quarter.

Softball results listed

In intramural action Wednesday afternoon, Mads edged Boobys, 14-13; Snatchers rolled over Abbott's Vards, 19-4; and 601 W. Oak easily defeated Happy Trail, 24-11.

Mo-No?

It could have been a love affair that endured time, tight money and other well-planned hazards of big-time fun and games.

But for reasons unexplained, Southern Illinois and the Missouri Valley Conference were never engaged. Much less married. Not that they didn't try.

Twice in the past decade, Missouri Valley people have mentioned Southern Illinois and asked—Why not? The first occasion was about 1964. Then again three years ago.

"The Mo Valley was looking for a football school and had it down to us and Memphis State," said one source. "But (President Delyte) Morris put the ax on it. That must have been about six years ago."

Exactly so. Beginning next fall, Memphis State starts its seventh Mo Valley year.

Possibility of an SIU-Mo Valley alignment popped up briefly about the time Southern Illinois helped breathe life into the Midwestern Conference.

News from Mac Vicar

"But the impression we got was SIU figured in that membership from the word go," said Larry Ensminger, Mo Valley commissioner. "So I don't think there was a great deal of contact then between our conference and SIU."

Initial news about a never-to-occur SIU-Mo Valley alignment came our way from ex-SIU chancellor Robert MacVicar, now president at Oregon State.

When Southern Illinois proposed to withdraw from its latest league venture, MacVicar wrote the Daily Egyptian, citing the Valley's mid-Sixties interest.

"There was no formal invitation so far as I can remember during the period I was there, 1964-70," MacVicar said Wednesday.

But according to athletic director Donald Boydston, Mo Valley representatives visited Carbondale twice and Edwardsville once during a three-year span beginning in 1964.

Why the fizzle-out? "I can't comment on that," said Boydston. "It never got past President Morris' office."

Discussion died until 1969 when the Mo Valley embarked upon a second expansion movement. But talk passed away again after a brief rebirth. New Mexico State and West Texas State joined up, giving the Valley 10 schools in two divisions.

Southern Illinois' past two conference ties have been marked by on-the-field success and off-the-field unhappiness.

Independence again?

In 1962, SIU withdrew from the Illinois Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (IIAC). The league later collapsed.

SIU had dominated all sports, as was the case years later in the Midwestern Conference. "That was an unhappy situation that was not anticipated," MacVicar said of the IIAC situation.

Withdrawal from the Midwestern Conference (Wee Four?) brings SIU to a crossroads—possible long-time independence or yet another conference. The main problem in finding suitable schools stems from Boydston's insistence on balanced programs across-the-board. The Mo Valley works at one sport—basketball.

Few universities—much less conferences—can match Southern Illinois' 10-sport strength. So, apparently it shall be SIU-Major Independent for many years ahead.

Especially concerning the Missouri Valley.

Only a fool beats a dead horse three times.
